Message from your President – Terry Brodof

The weather is beginning to turn cooler and nightfall seems to be creeping up on us sooner. I love Fall and hearing the sound of rustling leaves. Most of us will begin to stay home a little more. I've begun pulling out the warmer clothes and have shifted into my familiar fall, winter, and spring schedule. I'll be watching a little more television and reading a few more books. I don't seem to find time for television during the summer although, HGTV is my go to if I find myself sitting in front of a TV. Ok, I also check in on This is Us and the Pearson Family because I can relate to just about every Pearson family struggle they discuss. I'll get back to that in a moment.

According to the HGTV remodeling shows, a popular decorating theme today is utilizing shades of greys and whites, along with a bold accent color. My parent's accent color of choice was always orange. In The Psychology of Color, it says Orange, a combination of red and yellow symbolizes warmth. Red is filled with energy and stimulation and yellow symbolizes happiness and cheerfulness. Its description is actually a close analogy of my parents. In heraldry, orange is the symbol of strength and endurance. For me, orange always symbolized the warmth and happiness of home and the coming of fall and Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving was my parent's favorite secular holiday. They said it all of the time. It was a holiday when my dad was in the kitchen. Cooking on that day was fun. My grandma made the stuffing every year. My Aunt Bobbie brought the Jello molds I loved so much. My Aunt Barbara brought the pies. There were always some kitchen mishaps that day but we all laughed through them. We even had a hospital run one year as dad's finger got in the way while carving the bird. He was fine and it was the Thanksgiving I learned how to carve a turkey. We always had Thanksgiving in our home. We had Pesach at my Aunt Barbara's home and during Chanukah we were all at my Aunt Bobbies home. I was happy our home was the designated family Thanksgiving spot. Complete with turkey shaped salt and pepper shakers, stuffed Pilgrims at the table, pumpkins on the porch, fall leaves in the yard and an overflowing cornucopia centerpiece.

The entire family came over and tables were lined up throughout the house. There were the kid's tables and the adult tables. Truth be told, when I was moved up to the adult table, I longed for the time when my sisters would join me. Before the meal we would go down the line one by one voicing what we were thankful for—"good health, happiness, the joy of family, an "A" in math, thankful that we found the cat, being out of school, getting picked for a part in a play, our parents....etc..." Being thankful is a wonderful feeling if you are able to stop and embrace it in the moment.

Giving thanks is actually a very Jewish theme. To be thankful for all of our blessings. The moment we wake up in the morning from our beds we say “Modeh anee lefanecha, melech chai Vekayam.” Which translates closely to - I am thankful to you almighty king for enduring life. We show gratitude and start the day voicing our thanks for waking up from a restful slumber to begin the journey of a new day.

Most of us have a Thanksgiving plateful to be thankful for. First and foremost, we have been granted a full plate. We have a community that we are a part of. We have people who surround us. We have family and friends to share our burdens and our joys. We have the ability to express our thoughts. We live in a country where we can openly express truth and can openly express how we see ourselves. We have food on our tables. A home to return to. We are free to practice our faith and our customs. We have people around us who share our values. Yes, we have much to be grateful for. There are millions of people in the world who cannot share these truths.

Thanksgiving is also a perfect time to talk about our Jewish values and the connections Jews have to Thanksgiving. For example, the cornucopias, a prominent Thanksgiving centerpiece, was imprinted on ancient Jewish coins, seals, amulets, and jewelry. The first Thanksgiving was held outside and took place over a number of days. We can easily connect this to Sukkot and celebrations of harvest. The Thanksgiving table is a reminder of the Seder table. Where everyone gathers to share stories. We all share the joy of recognizing the “order” of events at both the thanksgiving and the Seder tables. Thanksgiving is the perfect time to incorporate beginning the meal by reciting Kiddush over wine and the words of the Shehecheyanu. “Blessed are You, Lord our God, king of the universe, who has kept us alive, sustained us and brought us to this season. Many of our families share a connection with our country’s original pilgrims. We share a pilgrimage of our own to this country to escape religious persecution. It is a perfect opportunity to pass along these stories to our children and to those at our tables.

I kept a magnet on my refrigerator for many years that read Remember to make this day Jewish in some way. Giving thanks and giving tzedakah is a great way to make the upcoming season Jewish. We have an opportunity to help the needy in our own community in November. We are scheduled to prepare and to serve food at the Over The Rhine soup kitchen November 10th. If you are able to physically help, consider volunteering . If you can’t be there, consider helping to fill an imaginary cornucopia for the OTR families in need of basics by donating a bag of fresh apples or oranges, tooth brushes or toothpaste, pocket hand sanitizers or easy to carry pocket snacks. The volunteers at the soup kitchen regularly collect these items and distribute them to our patrons who visit the soup kitchen for a nutritious hot meal. If you bring them to Shul on Thursday November 7th or Friday 8th, before Shabbat, they will be distributed to those in need.

I promised I’d get back to the This This is Us television show that I mentioned I tune into at the start of this note. One of my favorite This is Us episodes is the Pearson family Thanksgiving. It is a Thanksgiving that reminds us of how our holiday traditions began and how they connect us to the past. It also reminds us that although time and perhaps mishaps may change some family traditions, it also allows us to create new and wonderful traditions along the way. Three years ago, I passed the tradition of carving the Turkey to my son. Watching him carve our turkey, reminds me of the days when I stood at the kitchen counter watching my father meticulously carving the Thanksgiving turkey. From generation to generation. L’dor v’dor.

In November, let’s all try to make someone’s day better, in some way.

-Terry Brodof

Ritual Matters

Ritual Committee members: Co-Chairs: Barry Joffe & Barbara Taggart-Milberg;
Members: Emmy Friedenberg, Lynne Haber, Candy Kwiatek, Hank Lerer, Chava Vidal, Robyn Wolfe

Happy New Year 5780!

To all of you who helped make these High Holy Days (HHD) shine – and we all did in our own special ways - we thank you!

We always enjoy and appreciate Cantor Lubin leading many of our HHD services and, while not only being a wonderful Cantor, he is indeed a pleasure to work with. Many thanks to those of you who donated to our Ray Kantor Cantorial Memorial Fund to support having him with us. (See the separate Recognition article) Thanks also to the choir, to the many volunteers and participants and especially to our committed office staff (Hank and Chava) who plan and prepare so much and who make all of our HHD and fall holidays run smoothly.

But our most important gauge as to how the holidays fared is YOU. We need your feedback. Ideas for improvement are welcomed so that we can strive to make things better for 5781.

Positive comments are always welcome. 😊

The Ritcom's last meeting was in August and then we took a break so that we could focus on the 5780 HHD and Holidays. Now that we've gotten over 'this hump', the Ritcom is back on schedule, starting with a Sunday, November 3rd meeting. At this meeting we will recap the 5780 HHD season as well as turn our attention to some past and future matters at hand.

The Etz Chaim Minyan Committee has noticed a lull to the number of minyanim services requested over the HHD season. Please remember to contact us (contact cecminyan@gmail.com or Barry Joffe, Barbara Taggart-Milberg or the Etz Chaim office) to schedule a minyan service so that you and others can say yahrzeit for your loved one. Once again, we strongly recommend that you give at least 10 days of lead time when you send your request in.

We will have more to discuss with you after we have our November meeting. Until the next bulletin, have a wonderful month and Happy New Year.

Barbara and Barry

Thank you to our congregants who reached into their homes and their hearts to bring in donations for the 2019 Project Isaiah food drive. Special Thank you to the volunteers who delivered the food: Richard Pywen & Ron Shapiro. Again, a special thank you to Richard Behrman and Eddie Gallop for donating the sturdy and reusable bags. Kol Hakavod Everyone!

Here is an opportunity to help those in our own backyard...

I often stop channel surfing when I see the movie The Big Lebowski on television. It has become a cult classic. The movie stars Jeff Bridges and John Goodman, and in short it is about a group of bowlers and mistaken identity. The plot is insignificant, but the quotes throughout the film have become iconic.

In the movie, John Goodman's character is a converted Jew who is Shomer Shabbos.... well, at least when it comes to bowling, delivering the iconic line: "I don't roll on Shabbos". Jeff Bridge's character in the film is the called "The Dude." I found out that Jeff Bridges, the entertainer, the actor and the individual, in many ways is actually "The Dude." He and a few other entertainers founded the End Hunger Network. He also worked on the presidential end hunger initiative and in 2010 became the spokesperson for the Share the Strength's No Kid Hungry campaign.

In May of this year, Meghan Mongillo of WKRC did a piece on the Over the Rhine Soup kitchen-- the largest soup kitchen network in our city. She noted 21% of children in Hamilton County are not guaranteed a next meal.

The OTR Soup Kitchen not only helps Cincinnati children, it helps families in need, and our synagogue plays a big part in this endeavor. Six times a year, our synagogue serves about 175 meals at the Over the Rhine Soup Kitchen. We buy, prepare, and serve a lunch meal to those Cincinnati families who are in need.

We have 10-15 regular social action volunteers from the shul. Our Soup kitchen volunteers rotate turns at the kitchen. Cooking, serving, cleaning and talking with those who are in need of the soup kitchen's help. To those we serve, we truly are "The Dudes".

Our next Sunday morning soup kitchen date is Sunday, November 10th.

If you are interested in volunteering in this important initiative, please contact me, Matthew Brodof, (mb371607@gmail.com or 513-373-6925)

Membership Matters

You – our membership – matter!

This month we continue the intermittent series of building community by sharing information about our members.

*Enjoy reading a little about our newest members Toni & Chrissy Heldman
– written by Bob Friedenberg*

Among our newest members is Toni Heldman and her daughter Chrissy. Toni is a native of Cincinnati who graduated from Walnut Hills High School and Ohio University. While at Ohio University Toni participated in a wide variety of extracurricular activities and was President of the Women's Sorority Council.

Toni was raised in a very reform congregation. Her best memory of her early Jewish upbringing is that she had a great many HUC-JIR student rabbis as teachers. After graduating from Ohio University where she majored in advertising and marketing, Toni spent approximately 20 years in retail. Then she went out on her own and now runs her own marketing company. Toni has a daughter, Chrissy. Chrissy is a big fan of anything Disney and enjoys art and animals.

Toni is one of our rare members who at one time was a member of both B'nai Tzedek and Ohav Shalom. Hence, with friends in both of our founding congregations, even though we are a long commute from her home in Hamilton, she began to visit Congregation Etz Chaim. She and her daughter Chrissy both liked what they experienced on their first few visits. They especially liked both the services and the family atmosphere that they found here at Congregation Etz Chaim. Hence, though their commute is longer than that of many of our members, they decided to join.

Toni leads a very busy life running her own business and taking care of her daughter. Indeed, we did this interview while Toni was driving, and while I was interviewing her for this article, we were interrupted when Toni received a phone call from our own Terry Brodof!

Toni and Chrissy have enjoyed the brief time that they have been members of Congregation Etz Chaim, and are looking forward to becoming active members of our congregation. The next time you see Toni and Chrissy stop to say hello to our newest members!

We would like to thank our various sponsors

Challah Bake 2019

Thank you to the Sisterhood and an anonymous donor for making our CEC Challah Baking Evening possible. The evening was a fun, informal class led by Cheryl Ruben Vogel (Marty and Shirley's (z"l) daughter) who came in from Boston to lead this class. She makes challah weekly and shared her secrets to creating the perfect Challah. The building smelled fantastic and the challot tasted amazing. Those who attended the second day Rosh Hashanah luncheon benefited from this tasty project! The class is in memory/merit of Shirley Ruben z"l – thank you to the 36 people who attended and participated.

MEN'S CLUB

Aaron Schechtman
your Men's Club President

On the 13th of October, 5780, the routine process of building the Sukkah took place. I made it sound like it was just another day and event, but it was anything other than routine. There was overwhelming ruach taking place that day. New faces, old faces, smiles, laughter, and a feeling of fresh energy. The "menche on the bench" was excited about beginning a new year. Conversation dealt with politics, Israel, High Holidays, the Bengals and future events. Things got quiet when Hank and Brian called "party time", the food is ready. You can be sure there is never any left overs when these guys serve. Thank you for making another great sukkah event at Etz Chaim.

Our Men's club, and a few good women, did another wonderful job of ushering for the High Holy Days. They always make people feel warm and welcome, with their friendly smiles and warm greetings. Thank you to all who made these holidays special.

It is never too late to become a member of the Men's Club.
Send your $20 dues to Aaron Schechtman, and get involved.

“Providing a spiritually meaningful and educationally stimulating environment”

The next Education Committee program, co-sponsored by Sisterhood, will be a presentation by Rabbi Haim Rechnitzer, Professor of Modern Jewish Thought at HUC. This joint program will take place on Sunday, November 3 at 11:00 a.m. as part of the annual Sisterhood paid-up brunch event. Professor Rechnitzer will present a program on Jewish/Israeli music entitled “Singing Mystical Piyyot as a Way of Bridging Socio-Ethnic Divides in Israeli Society”. He will explore how the recent surge of popularity of Piyyot (religious hymns, highly influenced by Kabbalah) being performed by musical groups across Israel has the potential to reach across socio-religious divides in Israeli society. We will have the opportunity to listen and learn about this fascinating art form and examine its impact on current Israeli culture. We hope all congregants, both men and women, will join us for this intriguing program! See article elsewhere in the bulletin for more details.

The Education Committee and Sisterhood teamed up in September to sponsor a discussion around the book Letters to My Palestinian Neighbor by Yossi Klein Halevy. A lively and interesting discussion was led by Stephany Schechtman. Participants also enjoyed a delicious French Toast brunch. Many thanks to Stephany and to everyone who helped prepare the brunch and helped with other aspects of organizing this event. Our “Book Club” program was held as part of a larger community-wide program sponsored by Jewish Federation to stimulate discussion of this book in preparation for the author’s visit to Cincinnati to discuss perspectives of the Israeli/Palestinian conflict at the Jewish Community Center on October 29 at 7:00 p.m. The program at the JCC on the 29th is free, but reservations are required. If you plan to go, you can go on the Jewish Federation’s website to register.

There was a good deal of interest among participants at our September event to continue with an ongoing Book Club. Upcoming titles are being discussed, and we welcome your input!

As always, we extend our thanks to our committee members: Paul Evers, Israela Ginsberg, Candy Kwiatek, Penny Manes, and Diane Marcus. We appreciate all their ideas and energy in helping to plan and implement engaging programs that support Jewish learning for our congregants. We are always open to new members and suggestions for future programs. Please feel free to contact Lynne or Marianne.

Rosh Hashana CYJL Speech by Richard Behrman

I plan to focus on the benefits of creating your Jewish Legacy CYJL to Etz Chaim. This is an easy way to impart your Jewish values and traditions that are the core of your life.

I know what you must be thinking – It's enough of these fake posh South African accents on the bimah – since as you recall my friend and Lantzman Barry Joffe stood here last year as I am doing today. Barry spoke of how Jewish communities were so successful in responding to crises and not necessarily to planned giving.

Up and till a few years ago, Jewish communities as a whole in the US were NOT known to be proactive and support endowment or planned giving efforts. Many communities responded to campaigns of all kinds – annual operation fundraising campaigns here, in Israel and globally, and more so emergency campaigns – for example geographic catastrophes like earthquakes, hurricanes, tornadoes and global poverty to addressing hate, anti-Semitic political and terrorist attacks around the world. These campaigns though are all in the present and are a response to an issue.

CYJL promotes after-lifetime giving to build endowments that will provide financial stability to Jewish day schools, synagogues, social service organizations, Including our shul Congregation Etz Chaim. This mindset has changed the culture of philanthropy. Since the onset of CYJL the Cincinnati Community has secured just under 1,000 confirmed commitments – totaling 61 Million Dollars and of that 19 Million Dollars has already been realized.

It is important to recognize the unbelievable success that Cincinnati has experienced and more so the incredible direct impact the program has had on our congregation. In a very simplified, easy to understand process this is an opportunity for you to leave a gift – something extremely personal for future Etz Chaim congregants that you might not have yet met. An opportunity for you to reinforce that Etz Chaim is a collective family and that you are part of this family with such rich traditions. An opportunity with extreme low hanging fruit to impart the values and traditions that are so important to you and your family.

When you make a pledge to CYJL, you fill out a simple, revocable document that can be changed at any time and can be altered to change the percentages you intend to leave for one or a variety of Cincinnati Jewish organizations. One does not need a lawyer or an accountant when filling out a Letter of Intent – it is a simple tri fold flyer. What we are talking about is everything monetary you are NOT taking with you when you pass.

Please remember the Jewish community with a gift in your will, trust, IRA, or life insurance policy.

You can elect to leave a portion of life insurance, your IRA, 401-K, stocks, bonds, etc. and not cut into any liquid assets your heirs may need. I also understand that you have no crystal ball in front of you and don't know what your needs will be in years to come. This pledge takes away any need to worry about future expenses of college education for your kids or grandkids, weddings, health care & retirement costs.

A legacy commitment will help sustain the organization for future generations and that is the role of the current congregation. This testimonial was recently documented by a congregant who made a commitment:

Etz Chaim Congregation has become our second home in Cincinnati. There we learn, volunteer and pray with our community and we want to ensure that our Jewish home is there for future families to thrive.

With our legacy gift we want to give back, but also give forward, to ensure that our children and future generations have a strong, vibrant and supportive Jewish community.

To be more specific, Etz Chaim has been able to achieve a significant reduction in our mortgage balance, purchasing new chairs for the social hall and painting the exterior of the building with legacy gifts that have already been realized. These financial and operational expenses were achieved by not rolling out a capital campaign but rather using these endowed gifts. Make no mistake we need the critical income from the attic sale, the car show and the pet clinic fundraisers but the future intent is to be less reliant on these labor-intensive efforts and compliment them with an alternate revenue stream tied into your personal Jewish values.

I want to share with you that Etz Chaim and its team members is repeatedly used by the Cincinnati CYJL leadership as a shining example of what can be achieved and how successful our shul has been. There are various goals and benchmarks put in place for each potential grantee. If we attain these goals, the shul is in line to receive additional incentive grants – what I am talking about is an additional TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR.

Therefore, what I am asking and what is needed is for Etz Chaim is to secure an additional 18 Letters of Intent. Putting your name to the tri fold flyer that says you will leave a minimum of 1% of what is in your IRA or 401 K when you pass. Putting your name on the flyer will not cost you ANYTHING right now but will secure the sustainability of what is so important to you for future family members that you have NOT yet met. It is not only the RIGHT thing to do but the ONLY thing to do. Thank you and please fill out the tri-fold flyer today. Together we can make a difference in insuring the future of our beloved shul.

We hope you had a wonderful Holiday season and we wish you all the best for a happy and healthy year! We also thank many of you for the nice comments we heard about the choir's singing during the High Holiday services.

Etz Chaim Choir members have sung their way through the summer and through the recent High Holy Days (HHD) 5780 and now they deserve a break! So we took some time off – along with taking a collective deep breath - after October 9th and it's now time to regroup, plan and practice singing some non High Holy day songs throughout the coming year.

So...now that it's the new year, have you given any thought to joining the choir? You have the option of participating all year round, only for HHDs or for all times but the HHDs. (of course, we'd love the first option!) No auditions and no reading music or Hebrew required – can't ask for anything better than that right? We really are a fun group! Contact Barbara or Emmy for more information.
